

Light-Toned Layering in a Noctis Labyrinthus Pit

Understanding both the spatial and temporal distribution of hydrated (water-bearing) minerals on Mars is essential for deciphering the aqueous history of the planet. Over 300 meters of layered beds are exposed in this trough of Noctis Labyrinthus, at the western edge of Valles Marineris.

uahirise.org/PSP\_005400\_1685

