

Geologic History Revealed in Valles Marineris

ESP_013784_1710

An enhanced-color image reveals bedrock that is several kilometers below the top of the giant Valles Marineris canyons. The upper layers have relatively little diversity of colors and textures, but deeper levels show more complex processes.

