

Stratigraphy in Crommelin Crater

Other areas in this part of the observation are covered by dust (which appears relatively blue in this representation). The layering may have been the result of sedimentation early in the history of Mars.