

HIGH RESOLUTION IMAGING
SCIENCE EXPERIMENT

UAHIRISE.ORG

Lunar and Planetary Laboratory

Flow Structures in Noctis Region Trough

uahirise.org/ESP_020313_1720

The wavy structures visible in the image center may have formed from this partly molten ejected material. The tectonic forces that opened this canyon also disrupted the crust in this location and led to the formation of many isolated blocks of rock with intervening valleys.