

Layering in Central Candor Chasma

At HiRISE resolution, we may be able to discern any structural relationships, which may yield insight into relative age of these layered deposits and faulting to basin formation. As part of a stereo pair, we can measure bedding and fault orientations.