

Rough Surfaces in Deuteronilus Mensae

The objective of this observation is to examine what may be formerly ice-rich terrain that has just lost ice to the atmosphere. Research with the Shallow Radar instrument onboard the Mars Reconnaissance Orbiter has found that many areas in Deuteronilus Mensae are glaciers with a thin layer of debris on top of them.