

HIGH RESOLUTION IMAGING
SCIENCE EXPERIMENT

UAHIRISE.ORG

Lunar and Planetary Laboratory

Looking for an Impact Crater on a Dune

uahirise.org/ESP_025481_1385

Finding an impact crater on a dune field would be quite important: as of 2011, no craters have been found on Martian dunes, which strongly supports the hypothesis that the dune fields are very young features and either formed or have actively evolved during the last tens of thousands of years.