

Breccia with Large Clasts

In this beautiful image there appears to be a breccia layer, or a layer composed of rock fragments embedded in a finer material. This particular breccia is made up of fragments (or “clasts” as they are known to geologists) so large they can be seen by HiRISE.