

Only on Mars

The South Polar terrain of Mars has a landscape unlike anywhere on Earth. In this scene groups of radially-organized channels, informally called "spiders" or more formally "araneiform terrain," are visible in rows.