

A Possible Landing Site for NASA's InSight Mission

One of the most difficult aspects of space exploration is finding a safe but scientifically compelling place to land. With HiRISE and its powerful resolution, other mission teams can request that we take images of potential landing spots on Mars.

