

Mystery Martian Morphology of the Month

This image covers many shallow irregular pits with raised rims, concentrated along ridges and other topographic features. How did these odd features form? One idea is that they could be from sublimation of shallow lenses of nearly pure ice, but why do the pits have raised rims?