

Craters within Craters

Sandwiched between a larger crater—one nearly 4 kilometer across—at the north end of the image and the southern edge of a much larger crater—one over 15-kilometers and certainly older—is this small impact crater that's exposed light-toned material in its ejecta.