

A Heart in Ascræus Mons

The feature indeed does look like a heart. It is located south of Ascræus Mons, which is a large volcano within the Tharsis volcanic plateau, so it is extremely likely that this feature was formed by a volcanic process.