

Opportunity Rover Winter Work at Murray Ridge

This HiRISE image of the Opportunity rover was acquired as a coordinated “ride-along” observation with the CRISM instrument, also onboard the Mars Reconnaissance Orbiter. The CRISM instrument is a spectrometer that views the surface in many wavelengths, allowing for mineral identification of the Martian surface.