

Moving Mass Material on a Mesa

This image appears to show some type of mass movement of material down the wall of a mesa in Deuteronilus Mensae. There is also an arc-shaped ridge at the end of the valley. The ridge may be a moraine from a glacier.