

Old Salt

Scientists think the light-colored materials contains chlorides, like sodium chloride or table salt, or maybe chloride of calcium or magnesium. These salts can be deposited during the evaporation or water in lakes or playas. These deposits are billions of year old, so it is truly old salt, not a fish tale.