

Dune Transition in the High Southern Latitudes

When we venture south of  $-60^\circ$  latitude, we see increasing signs of dune degradation, with subdued dune brinks and broad sandy aprons, rather than sharp, dune crests and distinct boundaries. This moderate-sized dune field is a good example of such.

uahirise.org/ESP\_049502\_1080

