

The “Specters” of Mars

The jagged saw-tooth dichotomy, over a grainy texture, seen in this close-up image reminds us of a scene from an old silent horror movie. Stark and unnerving, like that time between dusk and darkness, as the campfire burns out...was that something moving you saw through the canvas of your tent?