

Multi-Elevation Gullies

Gullies probably formed along the bouldery layers in the upper slopes of this unnamed crater within the last few million years. Gullies eroded these crater slopes and transported sediment downslope forming debris aprons multiple times. (NASA/JPL/University of Arizona. 251 km above the surface, less than 1 km across.)

uahirise.org/ESP_057450_1410

