

INFORMATIVE LAYERS

This image shows layering near the base of the south polar layered deposits. The layers apparently record ancient climate changes on Mars, similar to ice ages on Earth. The surface of the deposits is likely millions of years old.