

RAPID CHANGES ON THE NORTH POLAR CAP

Changes in relative brightness are apparent between different observations of this area. It is not immediately obvious what is causing the changes, but the linear patterns suggest that wind is playing a role.