

TECTONIC, VOLCANIC AND FLUVIAL ACTIVITY?

This image shows two cross-cutting depressions that may have been formed by the collapse of weak terrain along pre-existing faults. These faults are associated with the release of volcanic material and/or liquid water.