

FLOWING RIVERS ON ANCIENT MARS

This image of ridges in Aeolis Planum tells a story of ancient rivers and a Mars very different to that of today. These ridges show the location of the old river beds in Mars' distant past. The angle at which the ridges join together indicate that these rivers flowed from top-right to bottom-left.