

Gullies of Matarra Crater

Gullies on Martian sand dunes, like these in Matarra Crater, have been very active, with many flows in the last ten years. The flows typically occur when seasonal frost is present. Here, we see frost in and around two gullies, which have both been active before.

uahirise.org/ESP_054026_1300

