

A Young, Fresh Crater in Hellespontus

ESP_O43398_1600

This is a textbook example of a morphologically fresh and simple impact crater. At 1.3 kilometers in diameter, this unnamed crater is only slightly larger than Arizona’s Barringer (aka Meteor) Crater, (by about 200 meters). Note the simple bowl shape and the raised crater rim.