

The Changing Sands

ESP_O43617_1885

As of this date, MRO has been orbiting Mars for nine years. One benefit of MRO's nearly three completed extended missions is the chance to see landscapes change over time. These barchan sand dunes are a case in point: these have been imaged at least five times already, and each time, a bit more movement is revealed.