

Bedforms and Bedrock

ESP_O55407_1485

HiRISE
HIGH RESOLUTION IMAGING
SCIENCE EXPERIMENT
UAHIRISE.ORG

LPL
Lunar & Planetary Laboratory

A close-up of deposits at the base of a crater wall shows a mound of bedrock with beautiful color contrasts. The variation in color represents diverse minerals in the rock. This crater is located in the Terra Cimmeria region of Mars. (NASA/JPL/University of Arizona. 253 km above the surface, less than 1 km across.)

