

Colorful Impact Ejecta in Ladon Valles

ESP_058565_1620

This image covers the western portion of a well-preserved (recent) impact crater in Ladon Basin. Ladon is filled by diverse materials including chemically-altered sediments and unaltered lava, so the impact event ejected and deposited a wide range of elements. (NASA/JPL/University of Arizona, less than 1 km across.)

