

ANCIENT LAYERS EXPOSED BY A CRATER

A close-up view shows that thin layers overlie much more extensive ones. These varied colors likely mark different compositions, either from changing sediment sources or from differential weathering of previously deposited materials.

HIRISE

uahirise.org/ESP_092552_1420