

A FISSURE AND CHANNEL NEAR PAVONIS MONS

This image shows striking features. A linear trough strikes northeast, then abruptly ends, or changes into a narrow ridge. Where the trough ends, a sinuous channel has an east-southeast strike, trending at almost a right angle to the trough. What happened to form these features?

HIRISE

uahirise.org/ESP_086934_1775